Good practice involves:

- Following your procedures for monitoring and assessing privately fostered children
- Being flexible with the current definition and verifying the relationship between the child and carer
- Verifying the arrangement and its legitimacy with the parents
- Obtaining the child's wishes and feelings
- Considering the child's needs, including their immigration status and who has parental responsibility.

CFAB can help you with obtaining assessments and information from overseas. You can make a referral and obtain free advice from an Inter-country Social Worker at CFAB.
